Sanofi to Return Allerject® (epinephrine injection, USP) Rights to kaléo

Laval, Qc. - February 23, 2016 - Sanofi (EURONEXT : SAN and NYSE : SNY) announced today that the License and Development Agreement between Sanofi and kaléo, formerly Intelliject Inc., the developer of Auvi-Q® and Allerject® (epinephrine injection, USP) , will terminate later this year. At that time, all U.S. and Canadian rights will be returned to kaléo. Sanofi is in discussions with kaléo on these terms and for an orderly transition plan. kaléo will evaluate timing and options for bringing Allerject back to the Canadian market.

The decision to return rights for Allerject aligns with Sanofi's ongoing transformation to focus on critical therapeutic areas in its five global business units: Diabetes & Cardiovascular, General Medicines & Emerging Markets, Sanofi Genzyme, Sanofi Pasteur and Merial. Sanofi Canada will complete the nationwide voluntary recall process announced October 28, 2015. For more information on the voluntary recall, please visit allerject.ca.

Important Safety Information

Indication

Allerject® is indicated for the emergency treatment of anaphylactic reactions in patients who are determined to be at increased risk for anaphylaxis, including individuals with a history of anaphylactic reactions.

Important Safety Information

Allerject® is for immediate self (or caregiver) administration and does not take the place of emergency medical care. Seek immediate medical treatment after use. Each Allerject® contains a single dose of epinephrine. Allerject® should only be injected into your outer thigh. DO NOT INJECT INTO BUTTOCK OR INTRAVENOUSLY. If you accidentally inject Allerject® into any other part of your body, seek immediate medical treatment. Epinephrine should be used with caution if you have heart disease or are taking certain medicines that can cause heart-related (cardiac) symptoms.

If you take certain medicines, you may develop serious life-threatening side effects from epinephrine. Be sure to tell your doctor about all the medicines you take, especially medicines for asthma. Side effects may be increased in patients with certain medical conditions, or who take certain medicines. These include asthma, allergies, depression, thyroid disease, Parkinson's disease, diabetes, high blood pressure, and heart disease.

The most common side effects may include increase in heart rate, stronger or irregular heartbeat, sweating, nausea and vomiting, difficulty breathing, paleness, dizziness, weakness or shakiness, headache, apprehension, nervousness, or anxiety. These side effects go away quickly, especially if you rest.

You are encouraged to report negative side effects of prescription drugs.
